SS PHILIP AND JAMES CHURCH, TWICKENHAM

Damage to stained glass due to vandalism.

North Aisle – 2nd from west – 2 main lights

The right-hand light has been severely broken due to vandalism. An area has been completely smashed in leaving several holes. Fragments have been saved by the church warden.

Works

Remove the panel and temporarily fill the opening weathertight. Transport panel and saved fragments to our studio. Take rubbings of the remaining leads and dismantle affected area. Where practical, reuse fragments. Missing areas will have new glass cut, hand painted, stained and kiln fired to match the original as near as possible. Re-lead with lead of the same width and profile as existing lead. Waterproof with lead light cement. Apply new copper bands to solder joints to align with support bars. Return and refit.

Cost

£1,665.00 + V.A.T.

Yours sincerely,

Robert J Holloway A.C.R

Good morning Vera and the Venerable,

I am writing to let you know that we have sustained some damage to a window after the protective grill was removed to allow the person to throw something at it. Damage is relatively small and isolated but we have opened up a claim with EIG. This is in addition to some damage sustained last week to flower beds and a pottery tribute in our little Garden of Remembrance.

As it is a painted window, I am conscious that the reparation process might bring us to the DAC (and I have not had to do anything like this as an incumbent) - so I felt that forewarned was fore-armed!

If there is anything that I need to know, please do let me know. I attach a photograph of the damaged window to give you an idea of scale and the task at hand.

Have a good day,

Best wishes
Fr David
